

Spend Management.

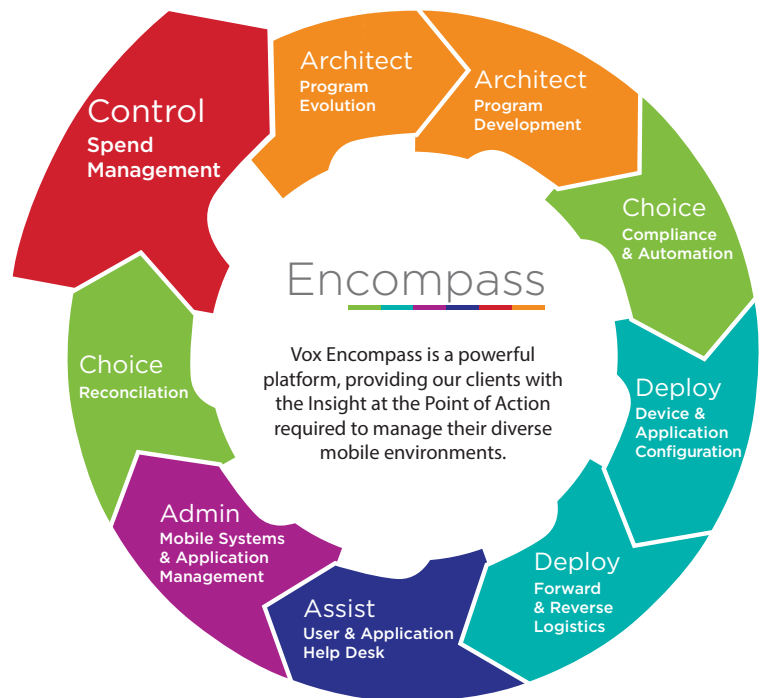

Monitoring and managing the complex factors that constitute mobile spend is a full-time job – one we take seriously. Our Vox Control managed service provides much more than expense reporting. Going beyond the typical Telecom Expense Management solutions, our experience, our people and the analysis of your expenditures, usage trends and carrier contracts allows us to deliver outcomes - verses the traditional approach of presenting you with data that you still have to decipher.

Leveraging our Encompass platform, we will have the needed insight at the point of action to identify tangible ways to optimize your spend – while ensuring a superior user experience. This valuable service is not a one-and-done, we continuously evaluate if there are changes in your mobile expenses that should be addressed, audit carrier changes, perform accurate departmental cost allocations and make recommendations for improving your mobile costs.

Lack of visibility and time is costing your organization dearly in mobile costs – until now.

Most organizations have huge spikes in mobile costs – driven by a lack of visibility in usage trends, compliance issues, needed controls or simply a lack of foresight about future initiatives. Vox Control is a fully managed, outsourced service that will deliver the insights your organization needs to make informed spending decisions and to plan for the future, while assessing critical factors that meet the needs of your mobile users.

CUSTOMER PAIN POINTS

How can we be sure we are up to date on the latest carrier plans?

Mobile carriers continually introduce incentives and special rate plans. While some may seem enticing at first, it is important to apply these promotions to your actual environment and compare your current rates. This takes a lot of time, time most administrators do not have. Vox Mobile architects receive all new incentives applicable and will analyze them against your environment. Each month, your service delivery manager will review the proposed changes and complete action items on your behalf.

We need to allocate mobile costs to the appropriate departments

Powered by the Encompass platform, Vox Mobile architects will create your custom allocation methodology and deliver files to your finance team each month, in their required format.
